“ My Dad was not there for me when " I " thought he should've been there, however, now, so long after he has been buried, I still think of my Father and how much he " did " do to help influence the way I was brought up to think. I continually try to use mental energy to contact his spirit. I have trinkets of his, his favorite square dancing vest and such. I have yet to feel any connection, but, still, I pray to my heavenly Father to forgive my Father of any sins he needed approval for from his Son, me. I love my Father, and he is honored in my heart, now and forever till the ends of time.

“ No one knows this except God in Heaven and my own conscience...but, I still miss my Father so much. I keep wondering if somehow, his karma life force might one day find me as I keep thinking of him in prayers. And, look at his belongings and think hard of him and our times we spent together, in hopes, somehow, he'll manifest and I'll get to see an afterlife truly exists.
