He attended Ballinger schools and helped his father as a butcher. After graduating from Ballinger High School on May 24, 1965, he attended San Angelo College where he studied accounting. During the Vietnam War, Wayne served in the United States Navy from 1970 to 1972. Wayne worked as an electrician for over 30 years. His job required travel which took him to several states. In his travels he never met a stranger. He loved to tell and swap stories and hear about their journey. Wayne loved his family dearly, especially his grandkids. His favorite name by far was Pawpaw. Wayne spent his retirement years with his wife in Brady, Texas and enjoyed visits from his grandkids.
